At the conclusion of the program, participants should be able to:

Provide a basis for feeding preterm infants after hospital discharge, in the process the following issues will be addressed:

1. Principles underlying nutritional support of these high-risk infants.
2. The importance:
   • that growth before discharge plays in determining nutritional needs thereafter.
   • of individualizing care to the widely differing needs in these infants.
   • of frequent nutritional assessment until ‘targeted’ growth rates are ensured.
   • that non-nutritional factors play in determining needs, therefore affecting growth.
