General Information

Statement of Need

The goal of this two-day activity is to educate attendees regarding the growth assessment of preterm and medically complex neonates in the era of neonatal personalized feeding regimens. Neonatal screening for hypoglycemia is not standardized despite AAP and PES guidelines. Oral dysphagia and gastroesophageal reflux disease and commonly encountered problems with significant practice variations among the neonatal centers. Acute kidney injury in preterm neonates is inconsistently diagnosed despite well documented short and long-term complications.

Learning Objectives

- Discuss the evidence behind currently used growth charts and their applications to proper target population.
- Develop neonatal hypoglycemia screening protocols to screen neonates at risk; distinguish transient hypoglycemia from pathologic forms of hypoglycemia.
- Demonstrate the need for timely referral for speech and swallow, GI, ENT evaluations of infants with oral dysphagia/gastroesophageal reflux disease.
- Learn the diagnostic criteria of acute kidney injury in preterm neonates.
